WATER 2040

Improvements Now and for the Future

Water Service Improvements are coming!

New larger water pipes and additional pump stations and water towers are planned, along with improvements to the water treatment plant. This upgraded infrastructure will improve water pressure and reliability for existing customers in southwest Stillwater and will enable new development, spurring economic activity in our city. The project will also reinforce water reliability in some parts of the city's central water service area. Other infrastructure improvements to benefit customers in the central area are already underway.
